

"I'm not a fan of heavy makeup so I just dust on Sloane Inc Sheer Mineral Powder. It makes my skin look flawless, and it rinses off with water."

- Dr Low Chai Ling, medical consultant of The Sloane Clinic. Travels twice to thrice a month to Jakarta, New Delhi and Shanghai.

BEAUTY • POLL

What's always in your travel bag?

Seasoned jet-setters tell us.

"I'm not a fan of heavy makeup so I just dust on Sloane Inc Sheer Mineral Powder. It makes my skin look flawless, and it rinses off with water."

- Dr Low Chai Ling, medical consultant of The Sloane Clinic. Travels twice to thrice a month to Jakarta, New Delhi and Shanghai.

"I wear false eyelashes as an eyelash case allows me to take along extra pairs. I also take my Clarisonic Pro SkinCare Brush whenever I travel. It's like an electronic toothbrush but for the face. It gently exfoliates and removes all traces of makeup for clean, smooth skin."

- Elaine Woo, flight stewardess. Travels weekly, sometimes to Europe and South-east Asia within a week.

"My nightly skincare routine - first, I apply Jet Concepts White Essence, then use a handheld LED device to 'shine' skin-rejuvenating light on my face. It keeps my skin clear, even-toned and supple."

- Gladys Cheng, founder of Jet Concepts and Skin M.D. Travels two weeks a month on average.

"M.A.C Illuminating Powder leaves my skin radiant after flights. In colder, drier climates, SK-II facial sheet masks are a must."

- Tin Lee, director of Audi Fashion Festival. Travels at least once a month.

"LINC STEM CELL FILLER. A SERUM THAT IMMEDIATELY REDUCES EYEBAGS AND PLUMPS UP LINES. LINC EYEBROW ENHANCER BECAUSE I LOVE FULLER EYEBROWS THAT FRAME MY FACE. AND OF COURSE, LIP BALM BECAUSE I HATE HAVING CHAPPED LIPS."

- Dr Patricia Wong, director of Linc Aesthetic Clinic. Travels every few months to cities like Paris, New Orleans and Cebu.

"I always pack products suited to the climate. But my one staple is a travel humidifier to prevent my skin from getting dry in air-conditioned hotel rooms."

- Chawson Law, celebrity makeup artist. Travels at least 10 times a year.